Decoys have been around for over 3000 years, but in the late 19th century fine hand-carved decoys were replaced by mass-produced balsa, or plastic birds, making the decoy craftsmen obsolete. In 1968 the Ward Foundation, named for two famed carvers, was founded, and in 1971 the annual Ward World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition began.

A childhood fascination with waterfowl and his first trips to an uncle's duck blind inspired artist Ben A. Heinemann to carve his first bird in 1971. Ben carved and painted in those early years for his own pleasure. Maintaining a rig of 75-100 decoys which required painting almost every fall was his first introduction to his decoy career.
