I don't know much about the Sierra Trail Boss. The one thing that most of the 6x6 and 8x8's have in common are chains and sprockets, axels and bearings. The best way to check them is to get all 6 wheels off the ground (vehicle up on blocks) and give the whells a spin. When you spin one wheel, the other two on that side should also spin.

Picked up this nifty thing yesterday, its a 60s or 70s Sierra Trail Boss amphibious 6x6. One of my fellow admins on MCB had a spare, and I have this mental issue where I NEEDED one of these, since I was a kid. With no middle wheels, it fits in the back on the 2 wheel arches like a champ. I'll have more pics soon.
